CATTLE ON FEED REPORT - JANUARY 19, 2024 COLD STORAGE REPORT - JANUARY 24, 2024 CATTLE INVENTORY REPORT - JANUARY 31, 2024 ALL REPORTS 2:00PM CST

_____

A few cash cattle were moved in Iowa/Minnesota on Wednesday. Prices were the same as last week and likely were scheduled for slaughter earlier in the week. Cash was $175.00 for all cattle and $275 dressed.

_____

Compared to a year ago weekly kill is down 79,000 head.

Boxed beef prices were higher. Choice beef continues to lose to Select as consumers are looking to buy less expensive beef. Normally, it is not a good indicator when Choice loses to Select. The consumer is setting the price. Cattle kill is down because of the snow storm but cattle will come to town. What happens when the supply of beef surges? With poor packer margins, packers could decide to do a little catch up, enough to fill previously contracted orders and keep slaughter down.

Live Cattle traders are not looking at the storm, recent cattle prices or the current price of beef on the daily market. They are anticipating what will likely happen in February on out. February and April Live Cattle are bear spread. First notice day is February 5, 2024.

Packers are working with negative margins. They aren't going to kill more than they need to kill.

Severe cold is predicted to last about 10 days with night temperatures below zero in many areas across the Midwest. There will be some death loss and feed conversions will drop but currently carcass weights are 16.5 pounds above a year ago.

TYSON, CARGILL EMPLOYEES STRANDED OVERNIGHT AT WESTERN KANSAS PLANTS

HTTPS://FOX4KC.COM/NEWS/KANSAS-NEWS/TYSON-CARGILL-EMPLOYEES-STRANDED-OVERNIGHT-AT-WESTERN-KANSAS-PLANTS/

When it snows in Kansas, an inch can be too much. But when it is windy and the snowstorm started out as rain, went to freezing rain and then snow with dropping temperatures, it is bad. I am actually surprised the plants didn't cancel production Tuesday and instead had plans for a small emergency staff for any cattle trucks that struggled in.

Compared to last reported (two weeks ago), steer and heifer calves sold 8.00 to 12.00 higher, while yearlings sold 2.00 to 5.00 higher. Demand was good to very good throughout the week and it usually is the first couple weeks of the new year as buyers are ready to get back to business as usual. This week was still an abbreviated week as there were several barns that took a full two weeks off for the holidays. Demand was good to very good as buyers were ready to get back to filling orders following the holidays and there were no major weather issues interrupting transportation in most of the nation. Buyers continue to want cattle that have had vaccination and weaning programs. Some buyers now have orders for calves that are required to have a 60-day weaning period, up from the typical 45-day period that was standard not that long ago.

Monday through Wednesday hog slaughter was down 125,000 head compared to a year ago. Wednesday on morning pork sales the daily carcass price was up $3.85 with all primals up except for ribs. Loins gained $1.83 and hams gained $4.34. Movement was light with 136.25 loads of cuts moving. Afternoon pork sales were also up but lost a bit from earlier sales up 2.14. The 5 day carcass price gained 77 cents. The storm has slowed slaughter and packers need to fill contracted pork orders first and the leftover pork is sold on the daily market. With fewer hogs killed, sellers have hand to mouth pork buyers over the barrel.

Eventually roads will clear and hogs will move. Pork prices were higher because kill is light. Packer profit margins will have packers pushing kill to make up lost hours. February has a wide bear spread to April and February is currently $6.25 over the CME Lean Hog Index.
